The board meets quarterly throughout the year, including online meetings with one in-person meeting at the annual conference, and is otherwise in regular contact through digital means.

Nominees must be:

- current PSi members;
- available for regular online meetings and project updates (most times of the year, this means responding to email and other messages; however, during busy times, this can entail regular Zoom meetings);
- committed to diversifying performance studies and building a wide network of scholars and artists.
